

Susan's First Bus Ride

Today is Susan's first day at her new school. She is about to ride the school bus for the first time. She's waiting at the bus stop with a boy she doesn't know.

Soon the bus stops to pick up Susan and the boy. The boy says, "You can get on the bus first."

"Thanks," Susan says. She walks up the steps.

The bus driver smiles at Susan. He says, "Good morning."

Susan smiles back at the bus driver. She looks for a place to sit.

A girl in the third seat slides over to make room for Susan. She says, "You can sit here if you want."

Susan smiles and says, "Thanks."

The bus arrives at school, and all the students stand up. Susan accidentally drops a book.

A boy in front of Susan says, "I'll get it." He returns the book to Susan.

"Thank you," Susan says.

"You're welcome," the boy says. "See you later."

Meanwhile, the other girl waits patiently in the seat. Susan says, "I'm sorry I'm in the way."

"Don't worry about it," the girl says.

Susan moves to the side and lets the girl off the bus ahead of her.

As Susan leaves, the bus driver says, "Bye. Have fun at school today."
